Roxanne Vargas is the host of NBC 6's lifestyle and entertainment show "6 in the Mix" and reports local and entertainment stories daily on the NBC 6 news. Among various distinctions, Vargas has received five Emmy nominations for her reporting and hosting of several features and was voted "Best TV Host" by the Miami New Times in 2012. A wife to Danny and mom to Julian, the South Florida native graduated from Florida International University and still calls Miami home. Maruchi Mendez is a freelance writer and the author of Finding Home: A Memoir of a Mother's Undying Love and an Untold Secret along with the Spanish translation, Buscando Mi Estrella. She is the co-founder of JunTos Foundation, which helps prevent the unnecessary loss of young people to heart disease and cancer, and an advocate for student-athletes' health. She lives in Miami where she has raised her four children. She is the proud grandmother of twins Patty and Angie.

The authors highlight the best attractions in Miami, which include airboat rides, where you might catch a glimpse of a hungry alligator. They also showcase the beauty of the city, by listing the most tropical places. My favorite spot is the Vizcaya Museum and Gardens. The book truly gives you the inside track to the very best spots to visit in South Florida. The authors even give the reader tips into places most tourist are unfamiliar with, like the Bakehouse Artist Complex. It's an amazing facility filled with dozens of artist studios in Wynnwood's Art District. My husband is a resident artist at the Bakehouse.

Looking for unique locations to visit and things to do in the Magic City? As a Miami native, I can say this list is spot-on. I've bought this book as a gift for coworkers who have recently relocated to the city, and they loved it. There are even good ideas for locals in here.

We loved to go to the places that the book recommended, it has a description of the places that are very helpful!

awesome guide!!!!
