Mary Maguire studied Fine Art and Textiles at Goldsmith's College, London, and gained an MA at the Royal College of Art in Metal work and Jewellery. Since then she has continued to develop and exhibit her work in various different media. Mary has written widely on crafts, including Wirework, Polymer Clay, Shells and Sticks and Stones. --This text refers to an out of print or unavailable edition of this title.

This was a gift for a friend and she loved it but it was a little tattered looking and out dated.

It was a gift for my husband who is very interested in making things from shells since we live near many beaches. He seemed very pleased, the pictures are beautiful and easy to follow instructions!

Not easy projects you can do. I am still determined to get it a try though!

Love this , it has so many fun ideas and loads of pictures to help you imagine crafty things to do with shells

I was thrilled when I received this book, as the projects are sophisticated and yet the instructions, carefully illustrated, are simple and thorough.

I gave this book to my sister and she can't wait to make some of the projects she found all her shells her self.

This is an excellent idea book. The illustrations create other ideas in one's mind but the one's in the book are excellent too.

This is a good book for those who have always wanted to experiment with the craft of shellwork. Mary Maguire's book is descriptive in text and also offers great photos with step-by-step instructions for the 25 featured projects, both large and small. Perfect for both the beginner and the seasoned shell crafter.
