"You can paint the sea in oils using special effects."

This is the best book of its kind. Lots of solid guidance, no fluff. All art technique publishers should study Robinson's style and the presentation of the subject and examples.

This is the absolute best book available on painting seascapes by master painter E John Robinson. There is no one more skilled or knowledgeable.

This is one of two excellent books (the other is "Painting Seascapes in Sharp Focus" by Lin Seslar) on how to achieve the effects I desired in seascapes. While I'd recommend Robinson's two other books, "Marine Painting in Oil" and "Master Class in Seascape Painting," there is a lot of redundancies to the superior "Painting the Sea in Oils Using...". I have a number of other seascape painting books, but this is the best for what I want to achieve. How this book might help you to achieve what you want in seascapes will depend on your knowledge, perception, and abilities to start with. I was fairly accomplished using the Bill Alexander/Bob Ross/Robert Warren/Buck Paulson and others techniques in landscapes, but I wasn't getting the effects wanted using that style of wet-in-wet in seascapes. I had more to learn and this book was great in getting me there.

This is the best you can get on the subject.

Originally, I checked it out from the library. Covers composition, palettes, and techniques. Great book with plenty of step-by-step lessons and a ton of tips, tricks and guidelines. A must-have for any seascape painter in any medium. Was surprised to find this book in NEW condition. Seller also packed it very well...a good thing because USPS tried their darndest to destroy it. This is a difficult book to find, and I'm very happy to finally get a copy of my own.

I have a large library of art instruction books, but E. John Robinson's are among the best -- and this book is FABULOUS.

Hands-down, this is the best book about the techniques of planing and painting seascapes.

Wonderful paintings. But after many years as an amateur painter, I feel I must stick to portraits...Seas are much too difficult.
