Barbara Hepworth: The Plasters: The Gift To Wakefield

Synopsis

Celebrating the generous gift of Barbara Hepworth's plasters to The Hepworth Wakefield by the Hepworth Estate, this groundbreaking publication combines a fully illustrated catalogue of the sculptor's surviving prototypes in plaster, and occasionally aluminium, with a detailed analysis of her working methods and a comprehensive history of her work in bronze. In addition, insights into the building which is home to the collection are provided through essays exploring the history of The Hepworth and, in a contribution by David Chipperfield, the design of the new museum by his architectural practice. A fascinating account of the sculptor's connections with Wakefield Art Gallery also features.

I wanted to learn about how Ms Hepworth created her large pieces. Even though the author was not versed in modern sculpture technique, I could understand both the technique and passion of this masterful sculptor.
